

I support Net Neutrality backed by Title II. There is no compelling reason or evidence to suggest that dismantling the current Title II protections will do anything other than allow certain corporations, legal entities and special interests to subject citizens to content that is biased unfairly. The result is akin to censorship, this is not acceptable and not the American way.